THE SYMPTOMS OF WEAKNESS

Were Effectually Dissipated by Course of Stocks To-Day.

PRICES FELL AT THE OPENING

But Practically All Declines Were Rebovered, and Striking Net Gains Were Established Over Considerable List.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.- The course of the elic explanation among speculators was hat it was due to an "error" in the recept of a single bank, or rather to the ectification of an error made in the presons week's return. It was this error, of it was said, which has caused the until the allowance for it, which made the thowing of the deficit of last Saturday agset the stock market. The comfort ound in this explanation was somewhat isturbed by the rise in the call-money rate to 12 per cent, and the calling of oans by the banks. But the conviction secame general that Saturday's hand tatement was not a fair index of the citual condition of the banks. The continued hardness of New York exchange it important interior points aroused excetations that the movement of moneys about to turn in favor of New York Phe shor contracts which were put our of the banks. The continued hardness of the very generally covered before the close.

The eve of the elections was also the consistency, which had been put out of he theory that this year's election mighe the prelude to the unestitled business conditions which are looked for in a presidential year.

The drop in the money rate to 5 per sent. late in the day accentuated the suying demand for stocks. An incident of the day was a sale of United State miliang at 12, compared with 24 for the set preceding sale, some time since.

Prices of bonds only partly resouvered to the unextiled business conditions which are looked for in a presidential year.

The drop in the money rate to 5 per sent. late in the day accentuated the suying demand for stocks. signs of inherent strength to-day, with the leading feature broadening speculation. The tendency of prices was upward in the forenoon, but later in the day very heavy profit-taking served to check further improvement, and, at times, forced a partial reaction. The opening was steady, with the active options 3 to 11 points higher, this being but a few points below top notch for the session. Around the opening shorts, room builts, the investment public, southern interests and the foreign clique were all identified as active buyers, with the former unremitting in their efforts throughout the rest of the day. Behind this general desire to secure cotton were strong cales from Europe, public and private, and a buillish batch of reports from the crop centre. As for the foreign news, Liverpool had unexpectedly advanced 3 to 35/2 points in the future department and 1.32d, in the spot department. Special dispatches to tradors on Change stated that heavy frosts had occurred in the Mississippi Valley and pretty much throughout the northern belt during the past two nights. Despite an advance of 1.1024 in the small supply remaining in their possession, this causing great unexistness in export circles and among American spinners, all of whom were in need of supplies for prompt shipment. The receipts at nearly all points made a sorry showing in comparison with this date a year aso. At the close the market for futures was very steady in tone, with prices set 5 to 12 points higher.

Dr. W. E. Hatener, of Grace-Street, de-livered a charge to the new pastor. His reminiscences of the former pastoral re-lations of the church were witty and ex-tremely interesting. Mr. Baldy is in the line of apostolic succession. The church has had nine pastors and Mr. Baldy is the tenth in succession. He hoped the eleventh would be a long time in coming and that the twelfth might never come. He reminded Mr. Baldy of the come. He reminded Mr. Baldy of the dignity and responsibility of his position as well as its difficulties.

years and since that time had come over on many occasions to officiate at the fu-neral of those whom he once loved in the Lord's work in this church. He had something to say of all the former pas-tors, but spoke specially of the last in-cumbent. Dr. L. R. Thornhill, whom he very dearly loved as a personal friend. He paid a high tribute to the consecration and usefulness of this honored brother. Dr. Hatcher's address as usual abound-ed in sparkling wit and tender pathos.
